‘Tis the season for hurricanes. Last week we saw Hanna hit the gulf and Isaias is set to hit the east coast sometime today. They are already predicting levels of destruction all the way up to New York.

Now, we don't know a lot about hurricanes in these parts, but we do know about tornadoes and other severe weather. We know the devastation that can be caused in just five or ten minutes and can only imagine the damage from days of flooding.

At times it can seem overwhelming. We have so many crises going on right now between the pandemic, social unrest, elections, economic instability, our own personal challenges and now we have weather events. What can we do? How can we help those in need?

If you are able and prompted to give to those affected by disaster, let me encourage you to check out Week of Compassion. It is our Disciples disaster relief agency and 100% of donations go to on the ground relief work!! When the tornado came through Bowie recently, WoC contacted me to make sure we were okay here in Nocona. They are really are a MINISTRY of the larger church.

Be sure to send Pastor Lory your sermon ideas and suggestions this week!
I still need one more topic!

Please pray as I discern whether adding a podcast to our digital offerings is a good thing to do at this point. Podcasts would include Sunday sermons
and shorter devotional
thoughts during the week for on demand listening.
